

JND Announces RelativityOne Government Offering

JND offers a secure, purpose-built RelativityOne environment tailored to the specialized needs of government agencies

SEATTLE, Sept. 30, 2025 – JND Legal Administration, the U.S. leader in legal management and administration services, today announced it is expanding its offerings with the addition of RelativityOne Government, a FedRAMP-authorized, cloud-based eDiscovery solution for government agencies and the firms that support them. With RelativityOne Government, JND will be able to offer all the tools needed to handle internal investigations, inspector general reviews, litigation and regulatory response, rulemaking and FOIA requests.

As the first Relativity partner to fully migrate to RelativityOne, JND has a strong track record of supporting government agencies operating in Relativity's cloud-based environment, offering secure, scalable eDiscovery solutions that meet the unique needs of public sector clients. With its early adoption of Relativity's generative AI-powered document review solution, Relativity aiR for Review, JND has helped government agencies with limited resources.

"At JND, we pride ourselves on being ahead of the curve with RelativityOne and now RelativityOne Government," said Jennifer Keough, CEO and Founder of JND. "JND's leadership with these platforms ensures that government clients receive the most secure, efficient and innovative eDiscovery solutions available."

"JND expanding its offerings to include RelativityOne Government is a natural evolution of the strong partnership our organizations have built over the years," said Laurie Usewicz, Chief Partner Officer at Relativity. "We look forward to continuing to support JND as they help drive more successful outcomes for clients and advance the pursuit of justice."

Leveraging the strength of RelativityOne's secure cloud infrastructure alongside JND's deep expertise, government clients can better manage increasingly complex data environments with efficiency, accuracy and confidence. This offering delivers enterprise-grade tools within a FedRAMP-authorized environment, ensuring compliance without compromise. Further demonstrating its leadership and ongoing commitment to serving government agencies, JND was recently recognized with the U.S. Public Sector Competency from Relativity.

"Government agencies are grappling with increasingly complex challenges - from tighter resources to mounting regulatory demands. That makes it essential for partners like JND to equip them with the right tools to deliver on their missions," said Brian

Thompson, Director of Practice Empowerment - Public Sector at Relativity. “By combining RelativityOne Government’s advanced technology with JND’s deep expertise, we’re enabling agencies to drive faster, smarter decisions that directly improve outcomes for the public.”

RelativityOne Government is the only cloud-native eDiscovery platform built in Microsoft Azure Government, empowering users to work confidently knowing their data will never leave the Azure cloud. With responsible AI built directly into the platform, JND’s clients benefit from faster insights and greater efficiency, as well as automated workflows that eliminate repetitive tasks and reduce the change of human error. On average, over the past year, RelativityOne Government customers collectively saved over 3,800 hours across automated workflows.
