

JND eDISCOVERY EXPERTS FEATURED AT RELATIVITY FEST 2017

Senior Vice President Scott Lombard and Director Ben Sexton to Present on eDiscovery Strategies

Oct. 19, 2017 – SEATTLE and MINNEAPOLIS – Leading industry experts from JND eDiscovery, a subsidiary of JND Legal Administration, will be presenting at the upcoming RelativityFest 2017, the annual conference hosted by Relativity to educate and connect the eDiscovery community. JND eDiscovery’s Senior Vice President Scott Lombard and eDiscovery Director Ben Sexton will participate in multiple panels in conjunction with the conference, which is taking place Oct. 22-25 at The Hilton Chicago.

Kicking off the event, Mr. Lombard will be presenting as part of the Global Partner Conference on Sun., Oct. 22 showcasing JND’s global success with RelativityOne. He will also be participating in the opening keynote presentation on Mon., Oct. 23 from 9:00 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. CST with Andrew Sieja, founder and CEO of Relativity.

Mr. Sexton will present a joint session titled, “An Analytics Cookbook for Complex Cases,” with Christian Levis of Lowey Dannenberg Cohen & Hart on Mon., Oct. 23 from 11:00 a.m. to 12 p.m. CST. Based on their recent webinar on the topic, this session will explore how to develop a multi-tiered workflow from both the legal and technological side by combining the different analytics “flavors” available in Relativity including assisted review, structured analytics and communication analysis.

As a RelativityOne Certified Partner, JND eDiscovery is among the first companies to use Relativity’s cloud-based version as its eDiscovery platform and now the largest global partner, offering clients instant access to the latest innovations in Relativity. With RelativityOne, JND also has the robust and scalable computing power of the Azure cloud and the flexibility of the platform for developing unique solutions. JND’s eDiscovery team developed LayerCake, a propriety application to increase the value using data analytics and technology-assisted review.
